

Rodrigo Pacheco

Hi Rodri,

Thank you so much for your great victory. First, this team gave many Mexicans hope; next, we'll see you give it your all in the Tour de France. Today, the Mexican delegation is arriving from there—seven of them from Central America—and you've secured your first victory in Cabos. I wanted to ask you: Could this be Rodri Pacheco's year?

First of all, I want to thank you all for being here, for your support, and for always following my career closely, day by day. We have to keep working hard.

Tomorrow we have a very tough race; I have nothing to lose and a lot to gain. From here on out, everything is a learning experience. Just winning in Cabo is a dream come true, and we're moving forward.

Hi Rodri, congratulations!

You started off losing, changed your strategy, then made a comeback—what happened? You really fired up the fans.

Well, yes—the truth is it was a very even match that came down to the smallest details. The playing conditions were very, very challenging; there was a lot of wind on the court, the ball was blowing all over the place, and we had to find a way to counteract that to make the game difficult for him—to force him to think more, to feel comfortable, to play fast—and that helped us. The fans definitely had a big impact because there were moments when I was feeling down, and their support lifted me up to win this game.
